ST ANDREW'S GREEK ORTHODOX THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE will continue to deliver "facilitation classes" in theological studies in early March 2020. These classes will provide an opportunity to current and prospective students who reside in Melbourne (and those across Victoria) to engage with part time theological studies (2 units per semester) without the requirement to attend lectures on campus in Sydney.

What are facilitation classes?

A facilitation class is a face-to-face learning experience whereby students enrolled in distance (online) education gather and interact with each other as part of a collegial learning community on a periodic basis. Led in person by the lecturer, a facilitation class will assist you in working through all lecture materials and readings for the respective units.

What can I expect of a facilitation class?

Your learning experience will be facilitated by an accredited lecturer. He or she will have a variety of teaching sessions planned for you and will also allocate time for the group to focus on issues that are pertinent to their current situation and needs. Students can ask questions and learn from each other in a safe, constructive learning environment. To get the most out of facilitations, you should finish the assigned preparatory reading before arriving.

Where will these classes be held?

Classes will be held at St John's College, Preston, inside the Science Building. Entry to the school carpark is via Blanch Street (off Bell St) with ample free parking. The College is situated just a short walk from bus services along St Georges Road (State Route 45) and Bell Street (State Route 40) and from Bell Train Station (Mernda Line).

How often will these classes take place?

Classes will be held in a designated classroom on Fridays, 6:00-9:00pm, and Saturdays, 9:00am-12:00pm and 1:00pm-4:00pm, during three separate occasions in the semester:

This normally occurs through an additional written assignment of varying length depending on the number of absences and the requirements of the unit.
