

Make the pure light of your divine knowledge shine within our hearts, loving Master, and open the eyes of our mind to understand the message of your Gospel. Instill in us also the fear of your blessed commandments, so that having trampled down all desires of the flesh, we may pursue a spiritual way of life, thinking and doing all those things that are pleasing to you. For you are the illumination of our souls and bodies, Christ our God, and to you we offer glory, with your eternal Father and your all-holy, good and life-giving Spirit, now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

Continual reflection on the Scriptures is light for the soul, because they imprint on the mind recollections helpful for guarding against the passions and for continuance with God through love and the purity of prayer. Moreover, it makes straight before us the path of peace trodden by the footsteps of the saints.

Saint Isaac the Syrian (7th Century)
Homily 54

This lectionary is intended as a general guide for personal use for those who wish to follow the pattern of daily readings prescribed by the Orthodox Church through the year. It is not intended for liturgical use except for Sundays as well as major feast days of our Lord Jesus Christ and of Mary the Theotokos. Orthodox Church calendars are readily available online. You may also consult your parish priest for the readings used in your parish or contact the Theological College.
